A NEW HAVEN man advises people to use snow hereafter instead of ice, for refrigerating purposes in summer. Provide, says he, a square box, say 12 to 18 inches square, fill it with pure snow, stamping it together with a smooth block of convenient form. Have the box made very little taper, just the slightest flare toward the open side. On emptying it you will have a block of snow sufficiently solidified, and ready, after one real cold night, for packing into your ice box. He says this will keep as long as ice, will, of course, be cheaper, and will be cleaner and purer.

ON Thursday evening week, Mrs. Dittler, of Easton, Pa., retired to bed with her child when the little one said she felt something crawling under the pillow of her bed. Next morning however, Mrs. Dittler discovered something lying on the floor, opposite her bed, resembling a rope, which she stooped and picked up, but imagine her horror and surprise when she found that within her grasp she held a copperhead snake about a foot in length. How the mother and child escaped being bitten by the reptile, and how the venomous creature ever gained admission into the house, is a mystery.

THE New York Tribune tells the following: A few days ago, while a boy named Ryan, about ten years old, whose parents reside in this city, was bathing in Ten Mile River, at Dover Plains, Dutchess county where he was visiting, he got into a hole and was drowning. Hezekiah Smith, a resident of Dover Plains, who had been bathing near by, sprang into the water to rescue the little fellow. The latter clung to Smith's neck with such tenacity as to thwart his efforts to get ashore, and both would have been drowned but for the assistance given by another man, whose name was not learned. He seized the boy and carried him ashore, supposing that Mr. Smith would then be able to take care of himself, but he sunk in the hole, as it is believed, from exhaustion, and was drowned. Mr Smith leaves a young widow and one child unprovided for. Employes of the Harlem Railroad at Dover Plains and Chatham defrayed the funeral expenses.

THE Revenue Assessor of the Third Pennsylvania district received the following reply to a note of his referring to the tax on yarn:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, July 9, 1870.—Sir: In your letter of July 8 you state that "A. B.," manufacturer of woolen yarns which he sells, and makes quarterly returns of his sales, and that he also receives from weavers of woolen fabrics wool which he spins into yarn and returns it to his owners, making no returns for sales, he simply receiving pay for spinning. You further state that "A. B." wishes to know whether he is liable to tax on the yarn which he simply spins for others, and does not sell. In answer I have to say that where no sales are made no tax accrues under section 4 of the act of March, 31, 1868. "A. B." is not liable to tax on yarn which he spins and does not sell, and which is not sold to him.

Very respectfully,
J. W. DOUGLASS, Acting Com'r.

41ST CONGRESS.

(SECOND SESSION.)

The Funding and Tax Bills Finally Passed—Reports of the Investigation in the Case of Gen. Howard—Conference Committees on the Remaining Appropriation Bills.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 13, 1870.

SENATE.

Mr. DAVIS introduced a bill to settle and adjust all claims of the Choctaw nation against the United States. Referred.

Mr. POMEROY presented a memorial from citizens of the western part of Kansas for a land grant in aid of a railroad through that section.

The annual post route bill was amended and passed.

Also, a resolution to print 20,000 additional copies of the bill to enforce the Fifteenth Amendment.

Mr. SHERMAN, from the Conference Committee on the tax and tariff bill, introduced a report which was adopted.

The most important Senate amendments had been agreed to by the House. The principal question referred to the Conference Committee was relative to the tariff on sugar, in regard to which the Committee reported a classification as follows: On all molasses five cents per gallon; on syrup of sugar, on concentrated Melado and concentrated molasses, one and a half cents per gallon; on all new and Muscovado sugar, not below No. 7 duties standard in color, one and three-fourth cents per pound, and not above No. 10 duties standard in color, two cents per pound, above No. 10 and below 13, two and one-fourth cents per pound; on all other sugars, above No. 10 and not above No. 20 duties standard in color, three and one-fourth cents per pound; on all sugars above No. 20, four cents per pound.

The duties on books and Bessemer steel remained as passed by the Senate. All Assistant Assessors now engaged in assessing taxes which are stricken out by the bill are to be immediately discharged and Supervisors of Districts are to be consolidated. The gross receipts and tonnage taxes are both repealed.

Mr. SHERMAN also submitted the Conference Committee report on the Funding bill, which was adopted.

In reply to an inquiry, Mr. SHERMAN stated that on the basis of last year's receipts the reduction of tax to be effected by the tax bill would amount to $76,000,000.

The Deficiency appropriation bill was reported back from the Committee on Appropriations, with amendments.

Mr. SUMNER offered a resolution instructing the Military Committee to inquire into the treatment of J. W. Smith, colored cadet at West Point, with power to sit during recess.

Objected to and the resolution went over until to-morrow.

The bill establishing a port of delivery at Kansas City, Mo., passed.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill giving bounty to soldiers honorably discharged who entered the service between the 4th of May and 22nd of July, 1861, and to the widow, children or father and mother of a soldier killed or who died in the service, having enlisted for less than one year. He thought it should cost about ten millions.

Bills were passed in aid of the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg Railroad, for the relief the Kentucky University, and making an appropriation to pay for the destruction of buildings during the war.

The credentials of Mr. Hamilton, of Texas, re-elected Senator for the term commencing March 4, next, were presented.

The bill to grant a pension to Mrs. Lincoln, was briefly considered, and an amendment to give her $15,000, in lieu of a pension, was rejected.

At two o'clock the Senate went into Executive Session.

The executive session continued till 8 o'clock, when the doors were reopened, and the Senate took up the Deficiency Appropriation bill.

The amendments reported from the Committee on Appropriations, including $15,000 for the annual repairs of Treasury building, and $10,000 for the support of primary schools in the District of Columbia outside of Washington and Georgetown, were adopted.

Amendments were proposed and adopted appropriating $57,000 in coin to pay the Peruvian Government on the claim of a citizen of that Government named Montana, and $30,000 for compensation of employes at Assay Office, New York.

The Senate during the evening passed the bill exempting pork packers, lard renderers and persons engaged in smoking hams from tax as manufacturers.

At 11:15 Senate went into Executive Session for a few minutes and adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Butler's resolution directing the House visitors to West Point to investigate the complaint as to ill treatment of a colored cadet at the military academy, was adopted. The visitors are Messrs. Schenck, Logan and Slocum.

Mr. SLOCUM moved to suspend the rules to take from the Speaker's table the Senate amendment to the House bill to fix the time for the election of Representatives in Congress. He announced his intention to move to non-concur in the amendment and ask a committee of conference. The Senate amendment increases the number of Representatives to three hundred.

The motion was rejected—yeas 94, nays 97.

The Senate amendments to the miscellaneous appropriation bill were non-concurred in in the gross, and referred to a Conference Committee.

A Conference Committee was also ordered on the Army Appropriation bill.

Mr. STOKES moved to suspend the rules and pass a joint resolution ordering $80,000 of the amount appropriated in the River and Harbor bill for improvement of the Tennessee river to be expended for the repair and completion of the works between Knoxville and Chattanooga, and for the continuation of works now in progress below Chattanooga, including Muscle Shoals. Agreed to.

Mr. FINKELNBERG, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill to create a port of delivery at Houston, Texas. Passed.

Mr. WASHBURNE, Mass., from Committee on Claims, reported a bill for the settlement of the accounts of Richard R. Peebles, late Collector of the Port of Galveston. Passed.

Mr. INGERSOLL, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a resolution instructing the Sub-Committee on Commerce to make an investigation during recess into tariffs and the exclusive rights of ocean telegraph companies connected with the United States and of land lines connected therewith, with power to send for persons, papers, &c.

Mr. SCOFIELD objected to the Committee sitting during the recess. The country had enough of that last year.

Mr. INGERSOLL moved to suspend the rules, but the House refused.

Mr. SCHENCK, from Conference Committee on Tax and Tariff bill, made a report.

Having been read, Mr. SCHENCK proceeded to explain it. The bill, he said, was not just what perhaps any member desired. He could very frankly say for himself there were a number of things that did not command his entire assent. Trying the bill by the complete returns for the last fiscal year he calculated it would reduce the internal tax fifty millions and custom receipts twenty-seven millions. He would not hesitate to say the reduction to be effected was over $80,000,000. He regretted the House assented to the first amendment of the Senate, which struck out seventy-five pages, more than half of the House bill, including special tax on brokers and bankers and their sales. Hereafter all Wall street operations would be free from burden and a source of revenue from which millions might be obtained without interfering with any fair, legitimate industry of the country, was swept away. He always should believe the House in that matter acted somewhat hastily. Perhaps it was partly his own fault in having moved the previous question, and thus putting himself in a condition where he had only four or five minutes to explain the matter; but he thought it more the fault or mistake of the gentlemen who led the House in that direction. It had been said by a gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Scofield) that the House ought to agree to the amendment, lest the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means be so obstinate that probably the bill would fail altogether. He did not think the gentleman from Pennsylvania could convict him before the House of being a pig-headed obstructionist or a standing objection against anything that might be presented for consideration.

After some discussion the report was agreed to—yeas 143, nays 49.

Mr. HOOPER, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to examine and adjust the accounts of the late collector of the Third and Sixth Collection Districts. Passed.

Mr. SCHENCK, from the Committee of Conference on the funding bill, made a report, stating it was precisely the same as that made yesterday, except as to the seventh section, requiring national banks to deposit new bonds as a guarantee for their circulation, which section was now omitted.

The report was agreed to—yeas 177, nays 35.

The following conference committees were appointed:

On Miscellaneous Appropriation bill—Messrs. Dawes, Beck and Sargeant.

On Army Appropriation bill—Messrs. Dickey, Logan and Archer.

Mr. MAYNARD, from Committee of Ways and Means, reported a joint resolution suspending whiskey metres at distilleries till further action of Congress.

Mr. GARFIELD inquired of Mr. Maynard whether there was any purpose to raise the duty on spirits this session?

Mr. MAYNARD replied, in very positive terms, that no such proposition had been or would be entertained by the Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr. DICKEY advocated the joint resolution as being intended to get rid of a first class humbug and fraud.

The joint resolution was passed.

Mr. FARNSWORTH moved to suspend the rules and pass the general amnesty bill, excluding from its benefits graduates of military or naval academies, members of Congress, heads of departments, &c., who had given aid and comfort to the rebellion.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, remarked it was not the member from Illinois who had charge of the report of the Committee.

The motion was rejected—yeas 74, nays 101.

Mr. SCHENCK moved to suspend the rules in order to take from the Speaker's table the Southern Pacific Railroad bill.

Mr. MAYNARD appealed to the members to give the friends of the Southern Pacific Railroad bill a hearing.

Mr. ELDRIDGE moved to adjourn. Negatived—64 to 113.

The rules were not suspended—yeas 75, nays 103.

Mr. ARNELL, from the Committee on Education and Labor, made a report in the case of the investigation of the charges against Gen. Howard and asked that the majority and minority resolutions be read and the reports ordered printed.

The Speaker intimated it would be well nigh impossible to have a discussion on the matter to-morrow, and that action could be taken on the resolutions now as well as to-morrow.

After some suggestions, in the midst of much disorder the majority and minority resolutions were read. The majority resolution declares the policy pursued by the United States toward four and a-half millions of people suddenly enfranchised by the events of the great civil war, in seeking to provide for their education, to render them independent and self-supporting, and in extending to them civil and political equality, is the source of just national pride, and that the House acquits Major General O. O. Howard of the groundless and causeless charges lately preferred against him, and declares and records its judgment that in successfully organizing and administering with fidelity and integrity the Freedmen's Bureau, which contributed so much to the accomplishment of the first two of those great ends, he is deserving of the gratitude of the American people.

The report was signed by the Chairman, Mr. Arnell, and Messrs. Beatty, Hoar, Townsend, Hamilton, Burdett and Tyler.

The resolution reported by the minority, Messrs. McNeely and Rogers, directs a copy of the testimony be referred to the Secretary of War, with directions to order a court martial for the trial of Gen. Howard, and recommends the passage of a joint resolution directing the Secretary of War to take the necessary measures to secure the interest of the Government in Howard University, its buildings and grounds and lands held by that corporation, which were paid for by the public funds, and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to take the necessary measures to recover any moneys drawn by General Howard from the United States Treasury as Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau and disbursed in aid of churches, religious associations and educational institutions not in pursuance of law.

Both reports and the evidence, covering nearly four thousand pages, were ordered to be printed.

The question being on the assignment of to-morrow for the consideration of the matter, much opposition was made thereto, and without disposing of the matter the House adjourned.

NEW YORK CITY.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 13, 1870.

THE ORANGEMEN'S RIOT.

Francis Wood, another victim of the riot yesterday, died this morning at Bellevue, from the injuries received. He was thirty-five years of age.

The number of injured persons taken to Bellevue was seventeen. Several of these were only slightly injured, and after their wounds had been dressed departed for their homes. There are still eleven in the hospital under treatment, and some of these received such serious injuries that they will in all probability die. It is asserted that if proper precaution had been taken by the police, the terrible affair might have been prevented, or at least the consequences would not have been so serious. Captain Killeen, of the Twenty-second precinct, it is said, was informed at 11 o'clock in the morning that some trouble might be expected, and that some time after that hour laborers on the boulevard quitted work and proceeded to Elm Park. No intimation of this was sent to police headquarters, nor does it appear that the Captain deemed it necessary to adopt any precautionary measures.

The Crisis in Europe.

The France-Prussia Imbroglio—Withdrawal of Prince Leopold—Great Britain Defines Her Position—The Excitement and Military Activity in France—Napoleon Ridiculed—The Feeling at Berlin—The Situation Still Uncertain, Notwithstanding the Apparent Concession in the Declination of Prince Leopold—Dissolution in the French Cabinet—Spain and Belgium Preparing for War—Rumored Carlist Rising—Latest Report—Resignation of French Ministers—Exciting Scene in the French Corps Legislatiff—France Evidently Hesitating What Further to Demand of Prussia.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 13, 1870.

WITHDRAWAL OF PRINCE LEOPOLD.

A cable special dated London, July 12, says that a formal withdrawal of Prince Leopold has been telegraphed to Madrid. His action is based solely on the ground that, in consequence of the insult which has been offered to Spanish honor, the Cortes would be guided in their vote by a determination to uphold the independence of the nation, and therefore the election would not be a spontaneous and sincere expression in favor of the Prince, without which he would not be willing to ascend the throne. Prussia maintains her dignity and yields not an inch to the French demand.

POSITION OF GREAT BRITAIN.

The British government has addressed a circular note to its representatives abroad, defining its position in Spanish affairs. The note deprecates the discourtesy of Spain in concealing from a friendly power the negotiations with a foreign prince in connection with the Spanish throne. It regrets the threatening tone of France, which is calculated to obstruct explanations and amicable settlement, and approves of the Prussian position, in the absence of proof of her complicity in the intrigue. While the election of Prince Leopold would be destitute of political importance, England will do all in her power to induce him to withdraw, in order to preserve the peace of Europe.

THE EXCITEMENT IN PARIS.

Another special, dated Paris, July 12, says: The excitement here over the quarrel with Prussia is tremendous. On the Bourse and Boulevards, and in cafes and clubs, heated discussions are are going on, and personal encounters are not infrequent. Ministerial agents are exciting the people against Prussia. They charge that the mangling of Count Benedetti's telegrams and the detention of trains yesterday were Prussian tricks to gain time.

MILITARY ACTIVITY.

The military activity is unabated. A fleet is under orders for the Baltic. It will be commanded by Admiral De La Graverne. General Donay is ready to march on Luxemburg with an army of sixty thousand men.

NAPOLEON'S COURSE OPPOSED.

The Ministers of War, of the Marine and Finance, had a protracted interview with the Emperor to-day. The opposition charge that the violent speeches of Duke de Grammont and Ollivier were made by the express direction of the Emperor, who is devoted to the interests of the Prince of Asturias. They also say the Emperor's motive is personal ambition, and ridicule the idea of a decrepid invalid leading an army, with a child of fourteen as his aid.

THE FEELING AT BERLIN.

BERLIN, July 12.—The people are united in favor of the stand taken by the government. Though stocks are declining the belief is general that peace will be preserved. A rumor is afloat that Prince Leopold is about to address a letter to the Spanish government declining the crown. It is said that the letter reflects severely on the conduct of France, and the Prince declines because he is not willing to be instrumental in involving Spain and Europe in a war.

July 13.—The Kreuze Massote treats the situation in language at once serious and energetic. Its article closes with the following sentence: "Germany indignantly repels the measureless arrogance of France. Prince Leopold returns the candidature because he is unable to reconcile the character of a German soldier with an act involving Germany and Spain in war." Bismarck has returned to this city.

PEACE WILL BE PRESERVED.

PARIS, July 13.—The Constitutionnel, the ministerial organ, has the following: The Government has testimony that the candidature of Prince Hohenzollern is withdrawn and the peace of Europe will not be disturbed. We are satisfied that a Hohenzollern will not reign in Spain. We demand nothing more, and rejoice at this pacific solution of the question.

A questionable dispatch from Dusseldorf this morning says Prince Leopold accepts the Spanish crown on condition of an immediate declaration of war against France, should the latter attack Germany.

WARLIKE ASPECT CONTINUES.

BRUSSELS, July 13, 10 A. M.—Warlike preparations still continue in France, notwithstanding the withdrawal of Prince Leopold, and there is universal fear of war.

The following dispatch, dated Berlin, noon, has just been received: "In spite of the withdrawal of Prince Hohenzollern, France maintains an alarmingly provoking attitude towards Prussia. The personal objection was, therefore, a mere pretext. France wants sudden and decisive war, in order to escape interior troubles and to efface the Mexican fiasco."

DIVISION IN FRENCH CABINET.

LONDON, July 13—2 P. M.—There are rumors from Paris of a disagreement in the French Cabinet. It is understood that M. Ollivier favors peace, while some of his ministry are still disposed to press matters.

The tone of the Berlin press, which has been mild during the pending troubles, has suddenly changed its tone and become defiant.

The Government nearly monopolizes all the cables leading to the Continent with dispatches on the Spanish question. As a consequence, business is deranged and news delayed.

THE FINANCIAL PANIC.

LONDON, July 13.—The rise in Paris Rentes last night of seven, and in Italian securities four per cent., reported in the dispatches yesterday evening, on the assurance that the final reply of Prussia was friendly, has been confirmed.

A large order for the purchase of United States five-twenties was dispatched to America by parties who were early informed of this intelligence.

1:30 P. M.—There is a better feeling on the Stock Exchange.

United States bonds are quoted at 88¾@89; Consols 92¾@92⅞.

Paris Rentes closed last night at 70 francs 10 centimes.

2 P. M.—At this hour all quotations on the Stock Exchange are much better. United States bonds are quoted at 89¾@89½.

Paris Rentes again advanced to 71 francs 50 centimes.

PARIS, July 13—3 P. M.—The Bourse opened firm; Rentes 70 francs 80 centimes. There is a better feeling everywhere. It is certain that several interpellations will be made in the Corps Legislatiff to-day touching the Spanish question. It is believed that some parties in the Chamber wish to force the Government into a declaration of war with Prussia.

RUMORED CARLIST RISING.

MADRID, July 13.—Rumors are circulated that Carlists were seen in considerable number in the Basque Province and that Don Carlos had embarked at Bordeaux to make a descent on the Spanish coast. The report was investigated and proves unfounded.

CONFERENCE OF MINISTERS AT MADRID.

Minister Sogasta had a conference yesterday with the Ministers of France, England and the United States.

PRINCE LEOPOLD'S WITHDRAWAL.

Prince Charles of Hohenzollern has sent to Paris a copy of the dispatch he addressed Gen. Prim withdrawing his son's name as a candidate for the throne.

SPAIN PREPARING FOR WAR.

Warlike preparations have been commenced here. Orders have been signed calling out the first military reserves.

LONDON, July 13.—Telegrams from Paris confirm the reports that a feeling of distrust and insecurity prevails on the Bourse, notwithstanding the withdrawal of Leopold. Troops are moving through Paris for the frontier, and there seems to be no abatement of military activity in other quarters of France.

BELGIUM PREPARING FOR EMERGENCY.

It is said the Belgian government is providing for war-like contingencies. All leaves of absence are recalled and troops ordered to the frontier, with instructions to destroy railways and telegraphs in case of invasion by a foreign army.

THE FRENCH PRESS.

PARIS, P. M.—The Constitutionnel is pacific to-day, but the other journals continue to fill columns with details of war-like preparations.

The Bourse to-night is agitated. Rentes have fallen to 69, 75.

RESIGNATION OF THE FRENCH CABINET—EXCITING SESSION OF THE CORPS LEGISLATIFF.

PARIS, July 13.—The evening journals report all the ministers resigned.

The Corps Legislatiff held an excited session to-day. Jerome David submitted interpellations to the ministry, which Grammont refused to answer until Friday. David thereupon pointed out the flagrant contrast between the previous haste and present slowness of the ministry to declare itself. Hesitation was now rediculous in a ministry which at first made such bold speeches, and delay was working all the while to the advantage of Prussia.

Other than Warlike News.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, July 13.—There is much indignation expressed here and on the Continent at the false story of the massacre in China. Arrangements will be made at once to ferret out and punish the author of the telegrams.

The formal opening of the Thames embankment took place to-day. The procession was led by the Metropolitan Board of Works, and included the Prince of Wales and Princess Louise in the royal coach, dignitaries of Court in full costume, municipal bodies, civic societies and many bands of music. The procession moved from the Westminster Bridge to Charing Cross Bridge, where a large pavilion had been erected. The buildings along the line of march were profusely decorated with banners. The Queen was unable to be present in consequence of illness.

DUBLIN, July 13.—The Orangemen had a procession at Lisbon yesterday (Tuesday) as a protest against the party processions act, and they have distributed one hundred thousand copies of inflammatory speeches denouncing the British Government.

THE OCEAN YACHT RACE.

GLASGOW, July 13.—The steamship Sidonian, from New York, reports having passed the Cambria at noon on the 9th inst., in latitude 54. 30, longitude 26. 38. The Cambria was standing W. N. W., and had a light easterly breeze. The Dauntless was not seen.

TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 13.—Another disastrous fire occurred here day before yesterday. The flames raged nine hours. Over fifteen hundred houses were destroyed, mainly of the poorer classes.

George Cruikshank and his Fagin the Jew.

In the works of George Cruikshank there is a curious instance in proof of the fact that artists have often produced their finest effects by pure accident, when every attempt to obtain the desired object by care and toil have failed. When the great George brought forth his remarkable figure of Fagin in the condemned cell, where the Jew malefactor is represented biting his finger nails in the tortures of remorse and chagrin, Horace Mayhew took an opportunity of asking him by what mental process he had conceived such an idea, and his answer was that he had been laboring at the subject for several days but had not succeded in getting the effect he desired. At length, beginning to think the task was almost hopeless, he was sitting up in bed one morning with his hand covering his chin, and the tips of his fingers between his lips, the whole attitude expressive of disappointment and despair, when he saw his face in a cheval glass which stood on the floor opposite him. "That's it!" he involuntarily exclaimed, "that's just the expression I want!" and by this accidental process the picture was formed in his mind.

The proposals must be addressed to the Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department, Washington, and must be indorsed "Proposals for Timber, &c., for the Navy," that they may be distinguished from other business letters.

Stamped Envelopes and Newspaper Wrappers.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT, July 11, 1870.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received until 12 o'clock M., on the 11th DAY OF AUGUST, 1870, for furnishing all the "Stamped Envelopes" and "Newspaper Wrappers," which this Department may require during a period of four (4) years, commencing on the 1st day of October, 1870, viz:

STAMPED ENVELOPES.

No. 1. Note size, 2⅝ by 5⅜ inches—two qualities.
No. 2. Ordinary letter size, 3 1-16 by 5⅜ inches—three qualities.
No. 3. Full letter size, 3¼ by 5⅝ inches—three qualities.
No. 4. Full letter size, (for circulars,) ungummed on flap, 3¼ by 5⅝ inches—one quality.
No. 5. Extra letter size, 3⅝ by 6⅛ inches—three qualities.
No. 6. Extra letter size, 3⅝ by 6⅛ inches, (for circulars,) ungummed on flap—one quality.
No. 7. Official size, 3 15-16 by 8⅞ inches—two qualities.
No. 8. Extra official size, 4⅛ by 10⅜ inches—one quality.

STAMPED NEWSPAPER WRAPPERS.

Six and a five-eighths by 9⅜ inches (round cut,)—one quality.

EMBOSSING, WATER MARKS, PRINTING, RULING, PAPER, STYLE OF MANUFACTURE.

All of the above Envelopes and Wrappers must be embossed with postage stamps, of such denominations, styles and colors, must have such watermarks or other devices to prevent imitation, and bear such printing and ruling as the Postmaster General may direct. The envelopes must be made in the most thorough manner, equal in every respect to the samples furnished to bidders by the Department. The paper must be of approved quality, specially manufactured for the purpose.

Whenever envelopes are ordered of the styles known as "Black-lined" or "Self-ruled," (lines printed inside or ruled on the face) the same shall be furnished without additional cost, the contractor to pay all charges for royalty in the use of patented inventions for said lined or ruled envelopes.

DIES.

The dies for embossing the postage stamps on the envelopes and wrappers are to be executed to the satisfaction of the Postmaster General, in the best style, and they are to be provided, renewed, and kept in order at the expense of the contractor. The Department reserves the right of requiring new dies for any stamps or denominations of stamps not now used, and any changes of dies or colors shall be made without extra charge.

Before closing a contract the successful bidder may be required to prepare and submit new dies for the approval of the Department. The use of the present dies may or may not be continued.

The dies shall be safely and securely kept by the contractor, and should the use of any of them be temporarily or permanently discontinued, they shall be promptly turned over to the Department, or its agent, as the Postmaster General may direct.

GUM.

The envelopes must be thoroughly and perfectly gummed, the gumming on the flap of each (except for circulars) to be put on by hand not less than half an inch the entire length; the wrappers to be also hand-gummed not less than three-fourths of an inch in width across the end.

SECURITY FROM FIRE AND THEFT.

Bidders are notified that the Department will require, as a condition of the contract, that the envelopes and wrappers shall be manufactured and stored in such a manner as to insure security against loss by fire or theft.

The manufactory must at all times be subject to the inspection of an agent of the Department, who will require the stipulations of the contract to be faithfully observed.

PACKING.

All envelopes and wrappers must be banded in parcels of twenty five, and packed in strong pasteboard or straw boxes, securely bound on all the edges and corners with cotton or linen cloth glued on, each to contain not less than two hundred and fifty of the note and letter sizes, and one hundred each of the official or extra official size, separately. The newspaper wrappers to be packed in boxes, to contain not less than two hundred and fifty each. The boxes are to be wrapped and securely fastened in strong manilla paper, and sealed, so as to safely bear transportation by mail for delivery to postmasters. When two thousand or more envelopes are required to fill the order of a postmaster, the straw or pasteboard boxes containing the same must be packed in strong wooden cases, well strapped with hoop-iron, and addressed; but when less than two thousand are required, proper labels of direction, to be furnished by an agent of the Department, must be placed upon each package by the contractor. Wooden cases, containing envelopes or wrappers, to be transported by water routes, must be provided with suitable water-proofing. The whole to be done under the inspection and direction of an agent of the Department.

DELIVERY.

The envelopes and wrappers must be furnished and delivered with all reasonable dispatch, complete in all respects ready for use, and in such quantities as may be required to fill the daily orders of postmasters; the deliveries to be made either at the Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., or at the office of an agent duly authorized to inspect and receive the same; the place of delivery to be at the option of the Postmaster General, and the cost of delivering, as well as all expense of storing, packing, addressing, labeling and water-proofing to be paid by the contractor.

SAMPLES.

Specimens of the envelopes and wrappers for which proposals are invited, showing the different qualities and colors of paper required, the cuts, and style of gumming, with blank forms of bids, may be had on application to the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

This advertisement and a specimen of the sample envelopes and wrapper furnished by the Department must be attached to and made part of each bid.

GUARANTEE.

No proposal will be considered unless offered by a manufacturer of envelopes, and accompanied by a satisfactory guarantee signed by at least two responsible parties.

AWARD—AGREEMENT—BONDS.

The contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder for all the envelopes and wrappers, the prices to be calculated on the basis of the number used of the several grades during the last fiscal year, which was as follows:

Note size	1,468,250
Letter size, first quality	60,467,500
Letter size, second quality	8,956,750
Letter size, second quality (ungummed)	3,618,000
Extra letter size, first quality	5,815,750
Extra letter size, second quality (ungummed)	454,000
Official size	569,900
Extra official size	3,100
Newspaper wrappers	4,936,250
Total	86,289,500

Within ten days after the contract has been awarded the successful bidder shall enter into an agreement in writing with the Postmaster General to faithfully observe and keep the terms, conditions, and requirements set forth in this advertisement, according to their true intent and meaning, and shall make, execute, and deliver, subject to the approval and acceptance of the Postmaster General, bonds with good and sufficient sureties in the sum of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($200,000) as a forfeiture for the faithful performance of said agreement or contract according to the provisions and subject to the liabilities of the seventeenth section of an act of Congress entitled "An act legalizing and making appropriations for such necessary objects as have been usually included in the general appropriation bills, without authority of law, and to fix and provide for certain incidental expenses of the Departments and offices of the Government, and for other purposes." (United States Statutes at Large, vol. 5, page 256,) approved August 26, 1842; which act provides that in case the contractor shall fail to comply with the terms of his contract, "he and his sureties shall be liable for the forfeiture specified in such contract as liquidated damages, to be sued for in the name of the United States, in any court having jurisdiction thereof."

RESERVATIONS.

The Postmaster General reserves to himself the following rights:

1. To reject any and all bids, if, in his judgment, the interests of the Government require it.

2. To annul the contract whenever the same or any part thereof is offered for sale for the purpose of speculation; and under no circumstances will a transfer of the contract be allowed or sanctioned to any party who shall be, in the opinion of the Postmaster General, less able to fulfill the conditions thereof than the original contractor.

3. To annul the contract, if, in his judgment, there shall be a failure to perform faithfully any of its stipulations, or in case of a willful attempt to impose upon the Department Envelopes or Wrappers inferior to sample.

4. If the contractor to whom the first award may be made should fail to enter into agreement and give satisfactory bonds, as herein provided, then the award may be annulled and the contract let to the next lowest responsible bidder, and so on until the required agreement and bonds are executed; and such next lowest bidder shall be required to fulfill every stipulation embraced herein as if he were the original party to whom the contract was awarded.

BIDS.

Should be securely enveloped and sealed, marked "Proposals for Stamped Envelopes and Newspaper Wrappers;" and addressed to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

OFFICIAL PAPER
Of Pittsburgh, Allegheny City and Allegheny County.

GAZETTE BUILDING:
Corner of Sixth Avenue and Smithfield Street.

THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1870.

BONDS at Frankfort 95¾.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp quiet.

GOLD closed in New York on yesterday at 113¾.

GRANT is called upon to veto the income tax. He will do it, for it is the Commercial that calls.

IT WILL be seen from our Washington dispatches this morning that the Funding bill has passed both Houses of Congress.

DOES the organ of the third party forget its advocacy of the $9,500,000 plunder at Harrisburg last winter that it should rail at its honest neighbors?

THE Republican conferees of the district composed of Indiana and Westmoreland counties, have confirmed the nomination of Messrs. A. M. Fulton, Dr. Thos. McMullen and David Ramsey, for Assembly.

BOTH political parties of Cambria county have gone to Potts—nominating Gen. James Potts, of Johnstown, Democrat, for Assembly, on the platform of removing the court house from Ebensburg to Johnstown.

THE Democratic conferees of the XXIst District, composed of Westmoreland, Fayette and Indiana counties, met yesterday at the St. Charles Hotel, this city and nominated Henry D. Foster unanimously for Congress.

THE Washington Reporter, in speaking of the new third party of this county, wisely says: "No man who has the interests of the Republican party and its principles at heart but will deplore anything which tends to its disruption and weakening."

THE Commercial has not yet published any letter from the House of the Hohenzollerns sympathizing with the new third party of Allegheny county. Surely that House is not pouting because no German was put on the ticket? If so, why don't the ready letter writer of our contemporary get up endorsement and sympathy from Napoleon?

KARNAHAN, KIRK & KARTHER is the name and style of the political firm having charge of the new party. All communication addressed to them regarding prospective vacancies on the third party ticket will receive prompt attention, after which they will be passed over to the ready letter writer of brimstone corner.

THE re-election of the present faculty of the Central High School with the accomplished Prof. Philotus Dean, as President, by the unanimous vote of the Central Board of Education, was a well deserved compliment. As organized now, the High School faculty will compare favorably in ability, industry and efficiency with any in the country.

SOME TIME since an ardent Republican inquired of the managers of the Pittsburgh Commercial, why that paper was always abusing the party, and did so little to advance its interests. The managers responded in substance, that the party gave them nothing, and they did not see that they were under any obligation to promote its interests when they were not recognized by it. It is alleged, we believe most uncharitably, that if some slight recognition had been made, and a small consideration given to that paper, a new party would never have been talked of. Finding, however, that it could make nothing out of the Republicans, it called blatingly for an independent organization, from which it expects to realize something handsome. The Republican party made a sad mistake when it overlooked the claims of the "central junta" for patronage. Could not its burning wrath be appeased by a small consideration in the shape of city printing at a thousand a year, or some other equallly profitable job?

DEATH OF ADMIRAL DAHLGREN.

Rear Admiral John A. Dahlgren, United States Navy, died suddenly at his residence at the Navy Yard, Washington, D. C., on Tuesday morning of disease of the heart.

He was apparently well on Monday, and during the day visited the Navy Department and the White House. He complained on Monday evening of not feeling well, and also on Tuesday morning, but ate breakfast with his family, and was not considered really ill until about nine o'clock. Mrs. Dahlgren had medical aid soon summoned, but in an hour from the time of the attack the Admiral was dead—of heart disease.

Admiral Dahlgren was born in this State in the year 1810. He entered the service as a midshipman in February, 1826, and served on the Brazilian coast, and in the Mediterranean in the years 1827-8. On his return he went through a course of naval study, and was engaged in the coast survey in 1835-6. In March, 1837, he was promoted to a lieutenancy, and was made a commander in September, 1855. At an early age he acquired a taste for constructing ordnance, and he was appointed to that department by the United States Government in 1847, when he invented and perfected the well-known Dahlgren shell-gun, then considered the most powerful weapon of its kind in existence.

In the course of his experiments in this direction he made the following publications, a part of them by order of the Bureau of Ordnance: Report of the 32 pounders of 32 cwt. (1850.) System of Boat Armament in the United States Navy, 2 editions (1852 and 1856.) Naval Percussion Locks and Primers (1852.) Shell and Shell Guns (1856.)

In 1845 Dahlgren was appointed to the command of the gunnery ship Cumberland, at Plymouth, engaged in testing the velocity and power of artillery, &c., and in 1859 he was removed to the Washington Navy Yard, to the command of which he was appointed at the outbreak of the rebellion. On the death of Admiral Foote, in 1863, he succeeded to the command of the fleet before Charleston, where he co-operated with General Gilmore in some fruitless attempts to capture Fort Sumpter, and the other defences of Charleston harbor.

GOING WEST.

Instances of prosperous and well to do farmers in our own and neighboring States emigrating to the far West to better their conditions are quite numerous of late. In some cases these do well; in others the change is unprofitable and disastrous. We have acquaintance with a gentleman who lived comfortably and contentedly on a small farm in close proximity to the city, who was seized with the Western fever so badly that he sold out his possessions and with several thousand dollars capital left for a new home. He was middle aged, enterprising and industrious, and surrounded by an interesting family. His dream of the golden land of the West faded in the hardships of the reality. His wife sickened and died, his children and himself were attacked with the ague, and after one years residence he returned home broken down in health and penniless, to again start out in life. Had he remained contented on his farm he would have been much better off. This is no isolated case. Nor do we cite it to discourage all emigration. The moral of the story is that where the farmer is prosperous, be it in Pennsylvania or Ohio, he should be content with well enough and not be lured into the hardships of pioneer life in the west. Our Kansas correspondent, than whom few have better judgment or more practical ideas, in his last letter to this journal, threw out some golden words of advice on the subject of emigration. He deprecated the idea of any well to do or comfortably situated farmer, in these parts especially, picking up his tent for new fields of labor, unless prepared to withstand the hardships and had enough funds to keep himself and family until such time as the fruits of his labor might be gathered.

There must necessarily be many privations to endure in the new West. Schools, churches, and society come not in a year to the pinneer. These necessary auxiliaries to the true enjoyment of life and the promotion of happiness cannot be over estimated, and before forsaking them the farmer should think and ponder. There are many instances where those who emigrate have much bettered their conditions in a pecuniary point of view, but the well-to-do and happy farmer here, be his possessions ever so small, cannot improve by a life in the West.

Then again there is another class of people who are pouring into the West and thronging it to the damage of others. We refer to mechanics, clerks and professionals, many of whom have not the ability or the vim to make headway in old established places, but who imagine that a new field is all they need to get on better in life. They find the doors of the workshops closed against them, the clerk market gorged and the professional walks crowded. They must either idle and beg or turn to farm labor for simple support. At best the West wants no such immigrants. The skilled farmer can find welcome, but mechanics are not needed, nor are clerks and professionals. Hence it is wisdom on the part of any well to do farmer, mechanic or clerk to resist the allurements held out by the West. They can do better at home.

WEST POINT ETIQUETTE.

Whatever other attainments they may have acquired, the white cadets at West Point do not seem to excel in their knowledge and practice of refined social etiquette. It appears from letters which have been going the rounds of the eastern papers for the past week, that Mr. J. W. Smith (colored), who has been admitted a cadet into the military institution at West Point after a very lengthy and rigid examination in which he acquitted himself with great honor, is maltreated and persecuted to such a degree by the white students, that he entertains serious notions of resigning. The vilest epithets which wicked hearts can suggest, and profane lips can utter are heaped upon him constantly. He is abused, maltreated and insulted in the most shameful and unbecoming manner. The rudeness and violence to which he is subjected have exhausted his patience and rendered his position almost intolerable. And in a letter to a friend he declares that a becoming self-respect will compel him to resign, unless a different order of things is established.

These white cadets should have their attention turned to the Constitution of their country, from which they will learn that under the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment, Mr. J. W. SMITH, although of African descent, having passed the entrance examination and complied with the laws and regulations of admission, has as good a right to the enjoyment of the privileges and benefits of West Point as they have.

The colored people of this country have been oppressed and degraded long enough. Every obstacle has been thrown in the way of their elevation and improvement, and it is high time that an end should be put to this state of things. During the past week, in the exercises connected with the commencement of Avery College, abundant evidence has been furnished that the colored people are susceptible of a high state of intellectual and moral culture, and are capable of elevating themselves to a high place in the domain of letters. Shall they be denied the right and privilege of qualifying themselves for any position in which the country may need, and be benefitted by their services?

If such a state of things exists at West Point, as is represented in the letters referred to, the proper authorities should apply the remedy without delay. Those young men who have shown so much vulgarity in the treatment of an unoffending colored cadet, whose race has been oppressed and enslaved in this land for more than two long centuries, and whose services were so efficient in crushing out rebellion, should be taught that good manners and refined breeding are not incompatible qualities in an American citizen.

It is a humiliating thing to learn that the sons of American citizens should manifest such a spirit of antipathy towards one who has been admitted into West Point under the very same rules and regulations as they have been admitted themselves, and whom they are bound by the laws of the land to recognize as a comrade. For the sake of their honor and reputation, as well as the object of their vindictive hate, the proper authorities should interpose their power so that Mr. Smith may be enabled to prosecute his studies without being subject to the most humiliating insults.

THE EUROPEAN COMPLICATION.

To an "outside barbarian",—and to many very near the throne, for that matter—European politics is the most bewildering of conundrums. The "balance of power" is the key to the mystery—but how is even Bismarck, or "the nephew of his uncle," to know just when to use this political "sessame?" As in the balancing business generally, the interested parties are very apt to fight about straws; and thus is Continental Europe kept constantly at war, or—what is about as bad, and as is the case at this moment—"just on the eve of war." No one power must hold the lion's share of prestige, and hence an eternal contention for the nearest approximate to the lion's share.

In the surface indication of the present situation in Europe, superinduced by what ought to be a very ordinary and natural event—the voluntary offer of the throne of Spain to Prince Leopold, of Prussia, and his expressed acceptance thereof, he, in the meantime, being, to all intents and purposes, a mere private citizen, with no claims whatever on the present King of Prussia—there is really nothing to create alarm; and if matters were allowed to take their own course, Prussia would in all probability, let the young Prince use his own directions in the matter. France would not be any less the realm of the Napoleons, and poor distracted Spain would doubtless have a wise and happy ruler. But here comes up the bugbear of "the balance of power" to frighten away any peaceful proclivities that might predominate. France is jealous, even to the very Othello pitch, of Prussia's ascendancy under the sphinxy minister that now wields her destinies. Therefore is Napoleon anxious for the shadow of a pretext to curb the career of her too successful rival, therefore is he making this question that pretext; therefore is he is likely to force an issue, to the complete oblivion of Leopold, Spain, or any other person or power except Prussia. If war, then, comes—and it does appear inevitable—it will be as a vengeance and a vindication on the part of France, and not because anybody in particular is going to rule Spain; because, no matter what Prussia, or any other power may say in the matter, it remains for the Spanish Cortes to say whom they will have to rule over them; and this body meets for that purpose on the 17th.

No. France has simply reached that desperate situation wherein she is "spoiling for a fight"—literally "spoiling;" for has not the Emperor been resorting to all manner of expedients whereby he might keep the Bourgeois in subjection—tearing down and re-building the whole city of Paris almost, that he might keep them employed! He sees that nothing but the safety-valve of war will save him: Prussia is the foe worthy of his steel, and he will strike her!

Besides, this Chassapot must not have been made in vain. The needle-gun has too much glory that was not French. Solferino was simply a target field for testing the first rifled cannon; Sadowa was created for the glory of the needle-gun; and now a new spot is to be immortalized for the apotheosis of the Chassapot!

France has gone too far in this matter now to back. Even if Prussia should more than disclaim, France will not permit it to suffice. There are also grudges—even the Schleswig-Holstein question—to be settled, and new precedents to be established, and nothing but war can do this.

In discussing the probabilities of a war between France and Prussia, a general European war, of course, is implied, as this is one of the peculiarities of the balance of power dogma. In the interim, all eyes—especially all American eyes, scarcely yet dry from the weeping of a fearful war—will be turned to continental Europe, watching for the first belch of the cannon smoke.

Six Sailors on a Coral Reef--Their Rescue After Fifty-one Days--Wreck of the Mercurius.

The London Times of June 27 says: The iron clipper bark Silver Craig, Capt. Cohu, which lately arrived at Liverpool, brought six seamen, the sole survivors of the crew of the Liverpool ship Mercurius, who were picked up from a coral reef off the northern coast of Brazil, where they had managed to exist 51 days. The Silver Craig sailed from Islay on the afternoon of the 15th of May, when about 10 miles from the Rocas Reef, of Pernambuco, the weather clear and a moderate breeze blowing, Capt. Cohu discerned a lump on the reef which he knew he was approaching, and made it out to be a hut of some kind. Drawing nearer, he observed a mast, with something like a signal of distress flying, and he at once bore down toward the reef, and hauled a boat out and prepared her for launching, in order to visit the reef. As he drew nearer the island he was enabled to see that the supposed flag was a striped shirt, hoisted half mast high, and disposed in lieu of a better signal. The Silver Craig was hove to within a mile and a half or two miles of the reef, and then six seamen came alongside in two small boats which they had constructed from wreckage found on the reef. They said they believed themselves to be the sole survivors of the ship Mercurius of Liverpool, which had been wrecked on the reef while on a voyage from San Francisco to Liverpool. They had little or no clothes, but, with the exception of a colored man, were all in good condition, having lived upon birds' eggs, shell-fish, fish, and even turtles, drinking fresh water which they had the good fortune to find on the reef. They had with them a basket containing about 200 of the large eggs which had been their principal source of food, and they were delicious eating when cooked. Capt. Cohu and his officers and crew took the castaways on board the Silver Craig, supplied them with food and clothing, and, as already stated, brought them to Liverpool.

The Mercurius was a fine new iron clipper-ship of 839 tons. She left San Francisco on the 5th of January, and was wrecked on Rocas Reef, a dangerous reef lying in lat. 30 deg. 2 min. south, long. 30 deg. 20 min. west in early morning on the 25th of March. It was dark and raining heavily. The side of the ship grazed the sharp edge of the coral below the water, and she struck heavily twice, being apparently over a ledge of the rock. She soon began to fill, and preparations were made for launching the long boat. Suddenly the ship lurched outward, fell over the edge of the rocky shelf into deep water, and went down in about eight fathoms. Her yards had previously been braced to bring her off the reef before she struck, and when she fell over, the sails, which were thus lying sideways to the masts, carried down, it is supposed, most of the crew. Those who regained the surface were swimming about in the darkness for two hours or more, until at length, as the tide fell, they felt they had gained a footing on the ledge, and when day broke they were able to move to the unwashed parts of the reef. At this time it was supposed there were only five survivors out of twenty-two who had been aboard the ship. The carpenter, Henry Murray, was seen alive near the reef, but a large wave came and washed him into one of the holes or small caverns which the sea had worn into the coral, and he was not seen again. In the course of the day, another survivor was discovered on another part of the reef.

The ship struck about 3 o'clock in the morning, and when the day broke all that was to be seen of the Mercurius were the tops of her fore and mainmast, in the deep water alongside the reef. Afterward she partly broke up, and some of the wreckage washed ashore, but no provisions or cargo, which consisted of grain. The survivors had a dreary prospect before them. The Rocas Reef consists of two coral islands, in extent about fifteen acres each. They are separated at high water, but the space between them can be walked over at low water. They both lie very low, and here patches of white sand in the centre, but little or no grass. Some few years ago the British Consul at Pernambuco had them planted with cocoa nut trees that the reefs might be seen by ships approaching, but only one or two of these have grown. The London clipper Duncan Dunbar was wrecked on the reef about two years ago, on her passage to Australia, with a rich cargo and numerous passengers. Portions of her wreck are still visible, and also remains of many other vessels. These sad relics were of the greatest use to the six survivors of the Mercurious. They found two iron water tanks, with a capacity of 400 gallons each, and having iron covers deposited in convenient positions and filled with water, having been placed there from the wreck of the Duncan Dunbar, in the early part of 1869. From the wreckage strewed about they built themselves a log hut, as comfortable a place as could be expected, even under more favorable circumstances, and with the aid of a broken sheath-knife, a hammer, two ounce weight, and a large copper bolt, they contrived, out of pieces of planking, to build two small boats, the nails with which they were put together having first been drawn out of the old wrecked timber strewn about. For food, they had plenty of birds' eggs, young birds and shell fish, and occasionally managed to catch fish and turtle. Fire was procured in the Indian mode by rubbing two dry sticks together; but this was a weary process, two hours' rubbing being required to produce a light, and the fire once obtained was watched day and night as jealously as the sacred flame of classical times. It was kept burning near the hut at night time to attract the attention of passing vessels. Two or three times during the sojourn on the reef the fire went out and had to be rekindled in the manner described. The timber of the former wrecks—calling up sad thoughts—served for fuel, for on the island there was naturally none. The men suffered severely from the rays of the fierce tropical sun—they were in latitude 3, south of the equator—for they had little or no clothes on when they reached the reef, only one of them having been on deck, the rest in their berths, when the ship struck. The reef swarmed with ants, very much like the English ant in size and appearance, but of a most venomous nature, and the men suffered great pain from continual bites. A fortunate addition to their stock of fresh water was a cask of that precious liquid, washed ashore some time after they had been on the reef, most probably from the wreck of the Mercurius, but there were no marks by which it could be recognized as belonging to that vessel. To protect their heads from the sun, the men knitted hats of coconaut fibre from the only tree they could find on the reef, and sewed them together with the same material, threaded in a needle ingeniously made out of a piece of brass found on the island. These hats they have brought to Liverpool as precious mementoes of their castaway life. The names of the survivors are John Coleman, D. McCall, Middy Baptiste, Joachin King Dilombo, Charles Lace and Francis Edward Gray.

THE FARMER.

TO PREVENT HOGS FROM BITING EACH OTHER.

A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer says: Fifteen years ago I began feeding a large number of hogs on floored pens around a flouring mill, and they commenced biting each other. One hog would give another a bite, when he would run and squeal, and each hog he passed near would give him a bite, and thus they kept the poor animal going until he died. I would go to the pen and stop them, but they would soon commence again. I concluded they were feverish, which made them restless, and they just bit each other for the want of something to cool their fever. I tried a variety of remedies, and at length tried feeding stove coal, which I found a complete remedy. I have continued ever since to feed my hogs all the coal they would eat, and have never had any more trouble with their biting each other.

HOUSE PLANTS.

A correspondent of the New York Rural says he has found whale oil soap, one pound to eight gallons of water, very effectual for the destruction of the small green lice which infest house plants. It should be applied to the under surface of the leaves, with a small syringe or whisk broom. Fumigation with tobacco is also good.

Those who have pot plants of any variety of flowers would do well to try a tablespoonful of bone meal put around the plant; the effect will be found of a most beneficial nature in a week or two. Indeed, if the bone earth is used with any kind of plants, there is probably nothing that can be applied which will be found more quickly to push forward the plants except Peruvian guano, and that is dangerous, for an overdose might soon destroy the plant. The bone, too, will be more permanent than the guano.

BEETS.

A Paris agricultural paper says that the culture of the beet is worth as much to a country as a fertilizer as it is for its product of sugar—the pulp being more valuable than the saccharine material extracted.

It is fed to cattle kept in stables, and where it is raised in large quantities, it permits a very large increase of stock. These in turn fertilize the land, so that the crop of wheat, in addition to the speciality of beets, has immensely increased.

We see no reason why a like result could not be obtained in this county, where the making of beet sugar has been inaugurated, and will be constantly increasing. If the pumice is carefully saved and fed as in France, there can be no reason why the soil should not be constantly growing in productiveness.

FRYING POTATOES.

Professor Blot gives the following directions for frying potatoes: Cut them in whatever shape you wish, above a bowl of cold water, so that they will drop into it. Then drain and wipe them dry. This must be done quickly, so as not to allow the potatoes to turn reddish. Have a coarse towel ready, then turn the potatoes into a colander, and immediately turn them into the towels, shake them a little, and quickly drop them into hot fat. When done turn them into a colander, sprinkle salt on them, leave the potatoes in the colander only about half a minute, then put them back in the very hot fat, stir for about a minute, and put them again in the colander. If the fat is very hot, when dropped into it for the second time they will certainly swell. Bear in mind that fried potatoes must be eaten as hot as possible. Fry only one size at a time, as it takes three times as long to fry them when cut in pieces as when sliced.

RECIPES.

Dressing for Lettuce Salad.—Yolk of one hard boiled egg, one teaspoonful of mustard, one tablespoonful of olive oil. Rub into a paste; add vinegar to suit the taste. Cut up the lettuce and pour over the dressing.

Nice Way to Keep Maple Syrup.—Pour it boiling hot in crocks or jars, then smear some writing paper thoroughly with the white of an egg and put immediately over the jar. It will stick as tight as wax, and when you open your syrup it will be as nice as new.

Moths in Carpets.—Wring a coarse towel out of clean water; spread it smoothly on the carpet; iron it dry with a good hot iron; repeat the operation on all parts of the carpet suspected of being infested with moths. No need to press hard, and neither the pile nor the color of the carpet will be injured, and the moths will be destroyed by the heat and steam.

Cleaning Engravings.—It very often happens that fine steel engravings get stained with moisture on the wall, or specked with mildew, and it becomes an important question how to bleach them. One of the best methods is to moisten them carefully and suspend them in a large vessel partially filled with ozone. The ozone bleaching them perfectly without attacking the fibre of the paper.

Improved Substitute for Washing-Soda.—It has been found that the hyposulphate of soda, which is now manufactured very cheaply, for the use of photographers, is much better than the common washing soda to wash delicate articles. It attacks neither the skin of the hands nor the objects to be washed, as does the common soda; and at the same time it is an effective bleaching agent, and takes out many spots better than any other substance.

Removing Grease Spots.—A simple agent for removing grease spots from carpets and silk and woolen fabrics is very useful. Carbonate of magnesia, saturated with benzole, and spread upon a grease spot to about one third of an inch in thickness, answers well for this purpose. A sheet of porous paper should be spread upon the benzonated magnesia, and a flat-iron, moderately warm put upon the top of all. The heat of the iron passes through and softens the grease, which is then absorbed by the porous magnesia. The flat-iron may be removed in the space of one hour, and the magnesia dust brushed off. Soap stone dust may be used in the same manner, and answer nearly as good a purpose.

Unprovoked Murder.

We are informed by one of our most respected citizens, just from Cathoula parish, that a fiendishly deliberate murder was perpetrated on the evening of the 4th of July at Little River, in that parish. The victim was Mr. B. T. Higginbotham, a highly honorable gentleman, distinguished for his integrity, his amiability and his liberality. Mr. H. purchased a plantation, and has been planting on Little River since the close of the war, and was held in high esteem by all his neighbors, both white and black. At dinner on the 4th, he expressed high satisfaction at the harmonious relations which existed between him and his fellow planters in that section, adding that he did not believe he had a single enemy in the world. Just after sundown, on the same evening, a message was sent to the effect that a gentleman on horseback wished to speak to him at the gate. Thinking no ill, and entertaining no suspicion, he attended the summons, when—horrible to relate—without a word, a pistol was presented at his breast and he was shot through the heart. The assassin at once fled, and the dying man could furnish no clue to the mysterious and altogether unprovoked attack.—N. O. Times.

THE Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu says: A squadron of six English vessels arrived at Honolulu, June 16th. The present squadron, denominated "The Flying Squadron," is going round the world, visiting the various naval stations, and relieving such ships whose time has expired, and having touched at the ports of China and Japan, is now homeward bound. They are to remain about a week, and then sail for Valparaiso. The officers were much lionized.

The Assembly Ticket.

MESSRS. EDITORS: It is conceded that a necessity exists for the nomination of good men at this time—more especially for the Legislature. Permit me to suggest for the consideration of the ensuing Republican Convention, the name of Thomas S. Mitchell, of the Seventeenth ward. Mr. Mitchell is a well-known business man of the firm of Mitchell, Stevenson & Co., stove manufacturers. He is in no sense a politician but a business man, largely interested in those branches of industry which so nearly concern the prosperity of our city. Comparatively young, of good standing and character, and deeply imbued with the progressive spirit which animates the active men of our community, he would add strength to the Legislative ticket, and his election would reflect credit upon his constituents. He is not seeking the office, but is one of a class that should not be overlooked by the Convention.

PITTSBURGH.

A Lady's Age.

The English journals are commenting with some humor on the recent rebuff encountered by Sir John Duke Coleridge, the Solicitor General, in cross-examining a lady witness who flatly refused to state her age, and in reply to the question "are you seventy?" said, "you may put me down at one hundred, if you like." Expostulation and persuasion had no effect. Sir John even offered to tell his own age, but the lady was obdurate; she would not tell her age to any man alive, she would not write it down for the information of the jury, and concluded with the assertion that the English law did not force her to answer such a question. Sir John Duke Coleridge was entirely baffled in the contest, and in despair gave up the attempt to obtain an answer. On this state of facts the question has been asked whether the witness was right in her legal position, and whether the laws of England recognize the age of a lady as a privileged matter, on the ground that a witness need not criminate herself.

BUILD UP THE SYSTEM.

Strength evaporates fast at this season. This is especially the case with all who live by the sweat of their brow. From every pore of the sieve-like skin a moisture exudes which contains the elements of vitality. Thereby the blood is impoverished, the nerves relaxed, the muscles weakened, the digestion impaired, the bowels disturbed, and the animal spirits depressed. The constant drain that produces these effects cannot be arrested, because it is due to the heat of the atmosphere; but the loss of the life-sustaining elements can be supplied by extra invigoration. Now, therefore, is the time to resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most powerful and healthful of all vegetable tonics. Long experience has proved that nothing else will efficiently sustain and regulate the system when wilting down under the double pressure of excessive heat, and constant physical or mental labor. All persons who have been tempted to try the local "tonics" (so-called) which have been started by sordid speculators in almost every town and village, with a view of "turning a penny" by the credulity of the unwary, know this to their cost. It is a wise maxim that says "hold fast to that which is good." Of the forty millions of people in the United States, probably one-fifth have tested the restorative properties of Hostetter's Bitters and know it to be a specific for dyspepsia, billiousness, nervous weakness, general debility, constipation, fever and ague, and want of appetite; that any of these should be persuaded to experiment with the worthless nostrums, recommended by unscrupulous and ignorant empirics seems almost incredible.

THE EYE.
Dr. FRANKS, the celebrated Lecturer on the Eye, and Manufacturer of Patent and Improved Spectacles, has returned to Pittsburgh, and is now at the ST. CLAIR HOTEL, where he adjusts his far-famed Spectacles to defective vision from an examination of the eye alone, so as to suit equally well by day as by artificial light without fatigue, from 15 to 25 years. Dr. F. may be professionally consulted on all diseases of the Human Eye, and has a large stock of his Spectacles and Eye Glasses for sale. About 4,000 pairs of these Spectacles were sold on Dr. Franks last visit in the space of three months, giving the most entire satisfaction to all, as the medical gentlemen and citizens of Pittsburgh have by certificate testified.
Be particular and enquire at the Ladies' entrance on Penn street for Dr. Franks office, ROOM 22 St. Clair Hotel. ap15:STTH

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST. (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

MONEY AND COMMERCE.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]
NEW YORK, July 13, 1870.

To-day's European market exhibit a marked recovery of confidence, which is not, however, fully explained by the news as to the political situation. The decided reaction has produced a more confident feeling here, which is indicated in the lower quotations in gold, advance in United States bonds and the reaction from a firmer tendency in the loan market.

Money market easier. Call loans 4@5 per cent. Discounts easier at 6@7. Gold, before regular hours, 13; after which it ranged at 12@12¾; in the afternoon, the market was quiet and steady, closing at 12⅛@12¼. Some foreign bankers, who sold bonds freely and bought gold, were free sellers of gold, and buyers of bonds. Carrying rates 3@5 per cent. to flat. To-day's steamers take out $715,000. Clearances $127,000,000. The Treasury received proposals for the sale of $1,000,000 gold. There were twelve bids, aggregating $2,725,000, ranging from 111 to 112 20-100. The whole award was made to a German banking house at the highest figure.

Sterling quiet and firm; 9¼@10.

The bond market sympathized with the improvement in foreign advices, although the fall in gold prevented any important change. The investment demand is healthy and the market closed strong. PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
WEDNESDAY, July 13, 1870.

The report of the "Producers Association" and that of the Titusville Herald do not tally together very well. The former reports the daily average production for June at 13,601 bbls; the latter, 14,817; while in regard to the decrease in stocks the report of the "Producers" gives it at 50,300 bbls, and the Herald at 29,328 bbls. Here is a difference of 1,078 bbls in regard to the daily production, and 20,972 bbls as to the decrease in stock. Of course, both claim to be right, but according to the above figures one or the other is wrong. Here, some are disposed to accept the report of the Herald, especially those who are inclined to be bearish, while others, who are interested in higher prices, swear by the report of the "Producers Association." There is one thing certain, however, it has weakened the market considerably, and it looks now if it would take it some time to recover.

CRUDE.

Market quiet and unchanged. Sale 1,000 bbls spot at 11½, Seller July, 11⅜ bid and 11¾ asked; August, 11¾; September, October and November, 12@12⅛.

Continues weak and dull and prices, as compared with yesterday, are lower. July at one time in the day was quoted down to 27, but subsequently rallied, and at 4 P. M. had advanced to 27⅜@27½ with a stronger feeling. August quoted at 27⅛@27½; September 27⅛@27½; and November 27¾.

PITTSBURGH WOOL MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
WEDNESDAY, July 13, 1870.

The wool trade has not been so active in the country the past week partly owing to the harvest, and partly to the fact that a good many agents have been withdrawn from the country districts in consequence of the advance in prices. Excitement and competition among buyers having had the effect to put up prices when there is nothing in the state of the woolen goods market, or eastern wool markets to warrant an advance in the price of wool.

Advices from the Boston, New York and Philadelphia markets state that fine wools are dull and selling at 45 to 50 cts for the various grades. We quote prices nominal at 40c for fine wools, although 41@42 has been paid, but we hear that manufactures who have been buying in the country refuse to give any orders at over 40c, and we think that the excitement having subsided, growers who have been holding for an advance will see the necessity of accepting 40c which is all the wool is worth under the present state of the markets. In many sections, nearly the entire clip is sold.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
WEDNESDAY, July 13, 1870.

The rumors of war in Europe have unsettled business matters, and produced no little excitement in some commodities, including breadstuffs and Petroleum, and in the event of actual hostilities, the former would certainly appreciate in value, while on the other hand, it would have a tendency to depreciate the latter. Some men of a speculative turn, who have no inclination to do what is commonly termed a legitimate business, because it involves too much labor, and is too slow in bringing in big returns, would like to see a foreign war, as it would tend to revive speculation, and this is just what they earnestly desire. These are the men who buy 15,000 or 20,000 bushels of wheat or 5,000 or 10,000 bbls of oil, without the slightest idea of handling a bushel of the former or a barrel of the latter the point being to hold until the price advances and then sell—it is "differences" they are after, nothing else, and just as frequently these "differences" are on the wrong side of the account. So far as the principle is concerned there is no diffrence between gambling in grain, or at the card table yet the latter is looked upon as a criminal offense, and is punishable with fine and imprisonment, and many men will gamble in wheat, flour, or oil, who would not be seen at a gambling table. We have known men, here in Pittsburgh, to buy grain on a margin in Chicago, who had no more idea at the time they bought whether the price would go up or down, than the man in the moon, though of course, they hoped for an advance, and it has badly crippled some of these parties and ruined others. The fact is very few men succeed in this kind of business; sooner or later, it is only a question of time, they go into bankruptcy, and as a general thing die poor.

ASHES—Unchanged; common soda ash, 4; refined, 4½; Pearls 9@9½; Pots 7¼.

APPLES—Arrivals continue light, and with a good demand, prices are firm and well maintained; quotations may be give at $4@6 per bbl.

The oat market is stronger, as there is some inquiry again from Philadelphia buyers, and besides the arrivals seem to be falling off slightly; may be quotod at 53, free on board, and 51@52, on track and wharf; we can report a sale of 1,000 bush at 52. As a general thing dealers prefer to sell to home buyers, as to use a common phrase, there is not so much danger of "after-claps," short weight, etc., etc. Corn is dull and unchanged; shelled can be quoted in the absence of sales at 85@87, and it would be difficult to sell a large lot. Rye, also, very dull, and cannot be quoted above 80@85, though there is not much offering at these figures. Distillers are about out of the market, and there are no buyers excepting dealers, and they are afraid to take hold unless they can do so at low prices. No movement in barley, and, consequently no established quotations.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede slowly with 3 feet 5 inches in the channel by the Monongahela marks last evening. Weather unsettled and warm, with indications of more rain.

The Tidal Wave, Capt. Wm. Newton's new Red River boat, arrived from Brownsville on Tuesday, and will leave for New Orleans within the next few days.

The Belle, Capt. Haney, is new independent packet for Brownsville and Geneva to-day, leaving at 5 P. M. Although in strange waters, Capt. Haney is the right man in the right place, and as he is one of those who bear acquaintance well, he will soon have plenty of friends in the Monongahela Valley. The Belle has just been thoroughly overhauled and repaired and is in excellent condition for business.

The new steamer Carrie Converse, Capt. G. W. Rea, is announced to depart for New Orleans on Saturday.

Business continues very slow at the landing, and there is not much prospect of any immediate improvement.

—The Memphis Appeal of Sunday says: Capt. Tom Leathers is justly proud of his gold medal presented to him at St. Louis. He says he will transmit it to his children as the most precious gift he could leave them. It is certainly a beautiful souvenir of one of the grandest achievements of the age. The Nachez left for New Orleans at noon. She had a fair trip. Captain Leathers informs us he will make two more trips to St. Louis, provided the river hold at 8 feet above Cairo. It is said the pilots did not tote fair with those of the Natchez in her recent run up. One whose name was given to us, is reported to have torn up some advices left for the Natchez at that port.

—The Cincinnati Enquirer of Tuesday says: Before Commissioner Blinn, on Saturday, appeared several deck-hands of the wrecking-boat T. F. Eckert, claiming wages. The Captain responded that he had given an order to one of the crew of hands, a Mr. Smith, for the whole amount, and that he absconded. As the men claimed not to have authorized Smith to collect for them, the Commissioner decided that the boat was liable, and issued an order to this effect.

—Captain Ike Kounts is having built at Brownsville the Thirteenth Era, which is to be the lightest draught boat ever in the Red River trade. Her dimentions are 145 feet keel, 32 feet floor and 3 feet hold; 2 boilers, 12 inch cylinders with 4 feet stroke. She will have a half cabin. It is expected she will come out light on 10 inches.

—June 17 the tow-boat Coal Valley collided with the coffer-dam of the Newport bridge, and carried it away. Suit has been brought by Mr. G. C. Franciscus, the bridge contractor, in the United States District Court, against the owners of that boat for $277.45 damages, arising from the collision.

—The Cincinnati Gazette says: The officers of the Ohio No. 4 request us to contradict a published statement that she will go into the Pittsburgh trade the coming season. She was built for a Cincinnati and Marietta packet, and will remain in that trade.

—The report that the Natchez had been considerably torn by her recent race are all untrue. She is in as good trim as when she left New Orleans. Not a bulkhead was taken down nor a timber removed from the accustomed place.

—The Granite State arrived at Cincinnati on Sunday night, and departed again for Pittsburgh on Monday. Capt. Kerr denies the breaking of a hog chain.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par.
The greater part of the road is already completed and shows large earnings, and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing.
The present advanced condition and large earnings of the road warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.
U. S. Five-twenties, at present prices, only return five per cent. interest, while these pay eight and one-quarter per cent. in Gold, and we regard the security equally good.
The Company reserve the right, without notice, to advance the price.

Aggravated Assault and Battery.—Jacob Schneider made information before Justice Barker yesterday, charging Joseph Devin with aggravated assault and battery. The accused, it was alleged, while at a picnic got into a difficulty with Jacob Mitz, a boy about seventeen years of age, who he struck on the head with a "billy," inflicting a severe injury. The accused was arrested, waived a hearing and gave bail for his appearance at court.

Not His Profession.—Every man should stick to his trade, otherwise complications will arise. Stephen Weisenberger, residing on Spring Garden avenue, Seventh ward, Allegheny, attempted the role of amateur night soiler on his premises Monday night. He wasn't a success, only so far as annoying his neighbors was concerned. One of them, Hugh Wilson, called the attention of Mayor Callow to the fact and a warrant has been issued for Stephen.

Alderman Eggers is about to investigate the case in a legal way and for that purpose has sent Robert a billet doux, inviting him to call at the magisterial sanctum.

Recently the establishment has been enlarged so that every visitor can be fully accommodated. Ladies and gentlemen will find Rhode's an admirable place to rest and refresh after an evening's jaunt through the park.

Floral.—Last evening a beautiful night blooming cereus flowered at Messrs. Elliott Bros. and Burgess, Market street. The flower was a pure white, about three inches in diameter, and emitted a vanilla like fragrance, which filled the air around with a rich perfume. It commenced to bloom about six o'clock, was at its height at midnight, and then commenced to close again, which would be completed at six this morning. Hundreds of visitors thronged about the floral establishment to look at the flower, which was the center of attraction. The same stem upon which it bloomed, had other buds which will flower in the course of a few weeks.

"Free Blow."

On Saturday afternoon and evening our old and esteemed friend, W. C. Gallagher, Esq., known by every man, woman and child in the city, and better known by the lovers of the drama as the "Roman Father," will take a benefit at the Opera House. He will appear on both occasion in leading characters, and will be supported by first-class actors. We understand William announces this as the opening of the Fall Campaign, politically speaking, and has resolved to give his prestige and self-devotion to the party that buys the largest number of tickets. Here is a chance for Purviance, Hopkins and Carnahan.

Early Morning Exercises.

The birds rose early yesterday morning and caroled their sweetest lays. Mrs. Eliza Kauff of South Pittsburgh, arose from her downy couch about the same time as also did her husband Frederick. These two domestic birds however didn't carol any. They got into a quarrel and Mrs. Kauff decended the stairs from her bed chamber with unusual velocity—her husband's boot, which encased his foot, at the time, being the primary cause of motion. She didnt like such a course and after deliberation called upon Alderman M'Masters, who sympathized with her to the extent of issuing a summons for Frederick's appearance before him.

Fell From a Train.

Yesterday afternoon about two o'clock, a son of the Rev. B. F. Brooke, of Allegheny, met with an accident, at Verner station, on the Pittsburgh Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad. He was about nine years of age, and in company with a younger brother, left his home on Poplar street, Third ward, in the morning to visit his sister residing near Verner's. As they neared the station, the two o'clock train came along, and one of the boys jumped on the last car. The other attempted to get on the rear platform. In doing so he was lifted from the ground, but could not maintain his hold and fell back, striking his forehead on the ties, and inflicting a severe gash. He was observed by some persons in the vicinity, and was brought back to the city. Dr. Buchanan dressed the wound, which is not serious.

Pennsylvania Female College.

The Board of Directors, having in charge the projected Female College in East Liberty, met Tuesday afternoon and selected the splendid residence of George A. Berry, Esq., in the Twenty-second ward. The property is very stylishly improved, of ample extent, embracing over ten acres of ground, and most admirably suited to the purpose. The pipes of the Pittsburgh water works are now laid past the property and the gas works of East Liberty, noticed in another place, will be in operation by the time the College will be ready to receive young ladies. The Committee on Organization are at work engaging a faculty. It is supposed that the chief direction of educational matters will be given into the hands of an Eastern lady. The question will soon be decided, as the College is open for the fall session.

THE CITY FINANCES.

Meeting of the Finance Committee—The "Barton" Bill—A Sub-Committee Appointed—Their Report on the Condition of the Treasury.

The bill of equity prepared by Mr. Barton, enjoining the City Treasurer, Finance Committee and others from collecting the city taxes levied under the last appropriation ordinance passed by Councils, &c., a synopsis of which we published some days since, was filed in the office of the Clerk of the District Court yesterday, and the respondents were served with notices stating that the matter would be brought up in Court on Saturday next, and the Finance Committee of Councils being among the respondents, a meeting of that body was held yesterday to decide what should be done in the premises.

The only business transacted by the committee was to instruct the City Solicitor, or Mr. White, who is acting for him, to file an answer to the bill at the proper time, and they then appointed a committee to investigate and make a report of the condition of the City Treasury.

The committee met at the Controller's office last evening at half-past seven o'clock, and after a careful and thorough investigation prepared the following:

To the Citizens of Pittsburgh:

In consequence of the statements and publications which have been made within the past few days in respect to the City Finances, and the manner in which the fiscal affairs of the city have been managed, based upon the bill in equity filed in the District Court by Mr. Barton, the Finance Committee, on July 13th inst., appointed the undersigned a committee to investigate the said matter and report for public information a full and correct statement of the financial condition of the city on the first day of July, 1870. After full and complete investigation, we find and report the following facts:

The amount in the city treasury available for all purposes (including $80,000.00 on deposit with Ira B. M'Vay & Co., fully secured and bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent., is $431,134.64 which amount is specially appropriated by law as follows:

1. To the fund created by the Act of Assembly of April 11th, 1862, (see City Digest, page 99) entitled, "An act to authorize the Councils of the city of Pittsburgh, to compromise with the holders of bonds of said city, issued in payment of subscriptions to the capital stock of certain Railroad Companies," $179,333.40
2. To payment of the municipal bonds due and falling due in the year 1870 (being $408.87 less than the sum necessary for that purpose) $141,891.13
3. To the Water Extension Loan, authorized by act of Assembly of February 28, 1868, (city Digest page 202.) $96,835.25
4. Net balance in the city Treasury $13,104.76

Total $431,134.64

The above items numbered 1, 2, and 3 are specially appropriated by acts of Assembly to the purposes above mentioned and cannot be used for any other purpose whatever. Therefore it will be observed that the net balance in the city Treasury on July 1st 1870, subject to the control of the Councils is precisely thirteen thousand one hundred and four dollars and seventy-six cents ($13,104.76.)

THAT ROBBERY.

Arrest of the Perpetrator—He is Committed for Trial—Why He Was Not Arrested Tuesday Night.

Yesterday morning Patrick Nolan, the Irishman who was robbed on Smithfield street, near Mellon's banking house, an account of which we published yesterday, made information before the Mayor charging Henry Pollett with the robbery. A warrant was issued and placed in the hands of officer Rivers, who, accompanied by officers Early, Ekoff and Richard Moon, proceeded to Pollett's saloon, where the men were posted so as to cut off the escape of the accused should he attempt to run, and officer Rivers entered the house after the man. Pollett learned of his presence and ran out of the back door and down Sixth avenue, where he was met and captured by officer Eckoff. He was taken to the lock-up, where he remained until five o'clock last evening, when he was taken before the Mayor for a hearing, R. J. Powers appearing as his counsel.

Three o'clock had been announced as the hour at which the hearing would take place, and such a villainous looking set of "mugs" as were assembled at the Mayor's office from that time until after the hearing, we venture to say were never seen there before. The crowd of roughs assembled in the court room in New York at the trial of Jack Real may, perhaps, have exceeded it in numbers but it could by no possibility have presented a more villainous looking set of faces. The prosecutor was beseiged by Pollett's friends to have him settle the case, which he agreed to do if they would pay him his money back. He claimed to have been robbed of $50, and agreed not to prosecute if they would refund. They paid him $20 of the amount and promised the balance at a future time, but the Mayor's officers who had been watching the transaction, declined to let the prosecutor leave the office, and when the Mayor arrived the hearing was begun.

The prosecuting witness was sworn, and testified that he came to the city from Steubenville Tuesday morning; about ten o'clock that evening he went to Charley Gallaher's saloon on Smithfield street to inquire for a friend, and got into a friendly game of cards with Pollett and others for the beer. About eleven o'clock, Pollett proposed to him to go out and get something to eat, and they started down Smithfield street together, Pollett having hold of his (Nolan's) left arm. After they had proceeded about half a square Pollett struck him and knocked him down, and when he came to his senses Pollett was running away from him, and he discovered that he had been robbed, and the pocket in which his money had been was turned inside out. A police officer came and took him in custody and conducted him to the lock-up.

Officer Ecoff testified that he and officer Early were standing on the corner of Sixth avenue and Smithfield street about eleven o'clock Tuesday night, and hearing a noise in front of Mellon's Banking House, they hastened to the spot and found Pollett, the accused, and Nolan in the hall next door to the bank. Pollett remarked to the officers that the man was a friend of his and that he would take him home, to which officer Early replied that he would take charge of the man. Pollett then started to run away and witness followed him. He went into a saloon in the basement at the corner of Sixth avenue and Smithfield street and proceeded to the end of the counter, when he made a motion as if throwing something behind the counter, and then passed out of the saloon at the back door. The reason witness did not arrest the accused at that time was because he did not know that the man had been robbed, and he knowing the man knew that he could arrest him afterwards if he was wanted.

Officer Early was next sworn, and testified that when he got to where the affair occurred Nolan was crying "murder," "thief," "fire," &c., and that Pollett had hold of him.

The defense called one witness and attempted to prove an alibi, but it failed.

The Mayor, after hearing all the testimony, said that he would hold the accused to bail in the sum of $3,000 for his appearance at the next term of Court, and in default would commit him to jail.

It is alleged that Pollett is a partner with Charley Gallaher in the "Sunflower" saloon, and also owns an interest in the den in the basement at the corner of Sixth avenue and Smithfield street.

Our reflections on officer Eckoff in our report of the affair yesterday may have been a little severe, under the circumstances, as appears from his explanation of the matter, but we are not prepared to admit that he acted properly in allowing the man to escape. Upon consideration, however, of the manner in which policemen are dealt with in our Courts when they happen to make a slight mistake, his action was excusable if not entirely justifiable.

INHUMANITY.

A Child Dies From Neglect—Brutal Conduct of the Parents—Coroner's Inquest.

A most revolting case of inhumanity was developed in the Eleventh ward yesterday, by the death of a child, eight months old, at the residence of its father, Christ. Greenawalt, on Overhill street. The child, Emma by name, it appears, was taken sick with diarrhoea about four weeks since, and its father and mother, both of whom have been drunk constantly for several weeks, neglected it and instead of consulting a physician, poured poisonous whiskey and ale into it, which had a tendency to hasten its death.

It is supposed that the little thing died Monday night, but the parents were both too much intoxicated to tell when it expired. Yesterday morning the body was discovered lying on a bench in the house by some of the neighbors, the Coroner was notified and held an inquest upon it, when the following testimony was taken:

Mrs. Augusta Payne, sworn—The child took sick about four weeks ago, with summer complaint; the father and mother gave it whisky and ale; they had no doctor; the child died on Monday night, the 11th of July.

John Wolford, sworn—Live in the same building with the Greenwalts. The father and mother were drunk all the time and for days they gave the child nothing to eat but whisky and ale.

Dr. J. G. Buchanan, sworn—From the testimony, I am of the opinion that the child died of diarrhoea, kept up by want of proper nourishment and by improper drink.

The jury returned the following verdict: That the said Emma Greenawalt came to her death from neglect and improper treatment on the part of her parents, in July, 1870.

The Right Thing—The Right Place.

Mr. Editors:—I was led by your favorable notice of J. F. Beilstine, and by the testimony of a friend who has dealt with him for more than a year, to try for myself the quality of the various kinds of meat for which he is celebrated. My experience is good proof that Beilstine either at his stand 78 Pittsburgh or 39 Allegheny Market, is, as yo have said, a sure place to get good, and only good beef, mutton, or veal, cut and served exactly as they should be. Try him and be convinced.

TH. DINNER AT HOME.

The Prettiest Woman in New York. Miss K——, well known in our fashionable society for her distingue appearance and beautiful complexion, was once a sallow, rough-skinned girl, chagrined at her red, freckled face. She pitched into Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and is now as pretty in complexion as she is charming in manners. This article overcomes freckles, tan, sallowness, moth-patches, ring-marks, etc., and makes one look ten years younger than they are. Magnolia Balm for a transparent complexion, and Lyon's Kathairon to make the hair plentiful, luxuriant, soft and delicate, have no rivals. The Kathairon prevents the hair from turning gray, eradicates dandruff, and is the best and cheapest dressing in the world. T:TH:S.

THE COURTS.

Quarter Sessions—Judge Collier.

WEDNESDAY, July 13.—In the case of the Commonwealth vs. L. R. Lindsay, reported yesterday, the jury returned a verdict of guilty.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. T. B. Rosensteel, indicted for assault and battery, W. Gilmor prosecutor, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and directed that the costs be divided between the parties.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. John Moran, indicted for assault and battery, W. Gilmor prosecutor, a nolle pros was entered, the case having been settled.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. John Kennedy, indicted for larceny, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Commonwealth vs. Robert Steel, indicted for assault and battery, Robt. Barr, prosecutor, was the next case taken up. Jury out.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Charles B. Strain, A. J. McGann, George Hall and others, indicted for obstructing election officers in the discharge of their duties was next taken up. The Mayor issued a proclamation for a special election in the Fifth ward for a member of the Select Council, April 20th, 1870, and the defendants are charged with having gone to the polls at an early hour in the morning and taken possession of the same, thereby preventing the regular election officers from a proper discharge of their duties.

Messrs. Moreland and Moore who appeared for the defendants moved the court to quash the indictment, assigning several reasons therefor, in which it was stated that the offense was not sufficiently and definitely charged in the indictment, and that the bill had been ignored by the grand jury, but through mistake had been returned a "true bill."

District Attorney Pearson replied to Mr. Moore. He said that the indictment itself was the only true record of the proceedings of the Grand Jury, and that the Court could not go behind it. He further held that the offense was sufficiently set forth in the indictment.

The Court remarked that the indictment was very poorly and inarticially drawn, and was but little if any credit to the person who drew it. If the Grand Jury was in session, he would have no hesitancy in quashing it, but under the circumstances, he would refuse the motion to quash, as the defendants could avail themselves of the defects, if there were any, on a motion in arrest of judgment.

SPECIAL PLEA.

Defendant's counsel put in the following special plea:

And now, to wit, July 13th, 1870, the said defendants, by their attorneys Moreland, Moore & Kerr, come into court, and having heard the indictment read, say that they are not guilty of the said indictment above specified and charged upon them, and the said defendants put themselves upon the county, &c.

And the said defendants in their own proper persons come into Court, and having heard the said indictment read, say that the said State ought not to further prosecute the said indictment against them, the said defendants, because they say that at the Grand Inquest of the county of Allegheny held, in and for said county, on the 30th day of June, A. D. 1870, the said Inquest did hear, entertain and act upon the information and indictment against each of said defendants, then and there presented and pending; and having heard all the witnesses produced, sworn and examined on behalf of and in the interest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania did, after full and due deliberation and consideration thereof, ignore the said bill of indictment and that by reason of neglect or oversight on the part of said Grand Inquest, or the officers of the Commonwealth attending thereupon, the said bill was returned to the said Quarter Sessions, marked and endorsed "True bill," which said return was contrary to the action and finding of said Grand Inquest, and was an error and mistake, and this, the said defendants, are ready to verify. Whereupon, they pray judgment, and that by the Court here they may be dismissed and discharged from the said premises in the said indictment above specified.

The Court held that the Grand Jury could not be permitted to come into court to testify to what occurred in the Grand Jury room. Defendants might file the special plea if they desired, but they could not be permitted to offer any testimony to prove that the bill was not correct.

A jury was then empannelled and the case proceeded.

Witnesses were examined to prove that the election was legally authorized, and the Mayor, the Mayor's clerk and others were called, and testified that the defendants and others took possession of the room in which the election was usually held.

The Judge of Elections of the ward was called and testified that when he went to the place of holding elections at a few minutes past six o'clock, defendants had possession of the polls and he went for the Mayor, who came with a squad of police, and the defendants then left the room.

The case was argued by Mr. Moreland for the defence and Mr. Powers for the Commonwealth, after which Judge Collier charged the jury. No verdict had been agreed upon when court adjourned.

AN OLD LANDMARK GONE.

The Demolition of the Old Drury—Interesting Reminisences.

The GAZETTE of Monday, Sept 2nd, 1833, announces the opening of the Pittsburgh Theatre as the latest sensation. It might be interesting to some of our readers to revive the reminisences of the "old Drury," as to-day the last traces of it will be removed. The plan of the old theatre was furnished by Mr John Haviland, architect. The original scenery was painted by Mr. J. R. Smith; the stage machinery was under the supervision of Mr. Stafford of Philadelphia and the mechanical department under Mr. Hoffner of Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia. We are also informed by the prospectus that "a first class London artist had been engaged for the last three months in procuring and perfecting the wardrobe which shall equal if not exceed that of any Eastern theatres." Then follows that "the manager has at great expense succeeded in effecting an engagement with the eminent young tragedian Mr. Edwin Forrest, also Mr. and Mrs. Hilsom, Miss Clara Fisher, Mrs. Knight, Mr. J. R. Scott and Mr. Parsloe, of Convent Garden Theatre, London, and concludes by saying that the management desire to "raise the genius and mend the heart, show virtue her features, vice her own image and the body of the times his form and presence." The advertisement was signed Francis C. Wemyss. The building itself was put up by Messrs. Rosberg, Reynolds, Scott & McCollough, and considering the numerous alterations that it has been subject to for the last thirty-seven years, has stood remarkably well, and though we dislike to say so, there is not one place of amusement in the city to-day that is as safe or as easy of a speedy exit in case of danger as was the old Pittsburgh theatre, and we trust that whosoever may build the successor to it that he will look to the safety of human life, and not barter away security for the sake of a few greenbacks. We give below a sketch of the demolished theatre taken from Alexander's Messenger, published in Philadelphia, together with the first words spoken upon the stage. The dedication speech was written by a prominent young lawyer at that time, and does him no discredit even at this day. The sketch was accompanied by a wood cut of the old Drury as it was first erected, and is quite a curiosity in its way. It is in the possession of Mr. A. Mameaux, of this city. Here is the description from the Messenger of 1833:

The Pittsburgh Theatre of which we this week present a front view, is a neat two-storied building, erected upon a plan furnished by Mr. Haviland. The front is 57 feet and the depth 130 feet. The interior of this Theatre is arranged to combine the greatest degree of elegance and convenience, and in both respects may safely vie with any others in the Union. The boxes of which there are two tiers, are of rose color ornamented with gold scroll work, bearing a shield upon which is emblazoned the arms of the United States. The seats are covered with crimson, woven edged with velvet and handsomely studded with brass nails. The Theatre is lighted with eighteen splendid chandeliers hung at proper intervals, the proscenium represents the Pennsylvania arms, and there are various splendid draperies about the stage and stage doors, and in the saloons, which are extensive and spacious. The scenery, painted by Mr. J. R. Smith, is of the most magnificent description, and the wardrobe and properties are all new and convenient.

On the occasion of the opening, Monday, September 2d, the following address written by N. R. Smith, Esq., of Pittsburgh, was spoken by Alexander Wemyss, the enterprising lessee and manager. We give it entire:

When genius hovering in his native sky,
O'er climes untutored cast a watchful eye,
As yet while thought was cradled by the nine
And fanned by zephyrs from Olympus shine,
He sank at length from his empyrean height,
And shed o'er Greece the rays of classic light.
The muses triumphed and the graces smiled,
As brightened forth the dawnings of their child.
The plastic powers of genius entertwined
Strength, fervor, beauty, in the infant's mind,
And reason, memory, judgment, formed the skill
To curb the passion and control the will.
Still, as the urchin thought, grew up, he knew
No art to bring men's foibles into view,
Nor yet their virtues, that this moral plan
Might meliorate, exalt immortal man.
To give perfection to the skill their muse,
Philia and Melphomone infuse;
Greece rose in splendor as the lambent flame
Which genius kindled blazoned forth her fame;
Arts, science, arms possessed the aspiring soul,
And the bright drama crowned the boundless whole.
The nine survived the ravages of time,
And waived their trophies in another clime.
Rome caught the Grecian spirit and his pride
Conceived new honors, spread her laurels wide,
And triumphed long the mistress of the sphere,
Till ruthless ruin check'd her high career.
The torch of genius, though its flame had waned,
Was not extinguished, for the spark remained,
And fanned by breezes from the muse's bower
Returned, at length, with renovated power.
To Gothic night succeeded all the fame,
And more that give to Greece and Rome a name.
The crest of Europe rose as science spread,
And o'er the world its light and lustre shed.
Shakespeare appeared, the drama's claims to try,
Give it new worth and fixed its destiny.
At length, when freedom planted here the tree
And called our soil the home of liberty,
Beneath its shade she fixed the dramas seat,
Where all the kindred ties of nature meet.
Hail to Columbia free and unoppressed,
And hail the rising glory of the West.
Queen of the West we trace thy rapid rise,
From forest gloom beneath inclement skies.
Prophetic vision did not ken this age,
He! an enthusiast, madman, to presage
That thirty years would throng a bleak wild waste
With wealth and pride, with fashion, beauty, taste;
Taste and refinement, here, have joined to rear
A dome that pleads your guardian care;
Taste shall unfold what taste alone imparts,
Enlightened intellects and generous hearts;
And here drama shall display confessed,
The Nine still vigorous, the muses blest.

Personal.

We find the following complimentary notice of our worthy townsman, President Pershing, in the Western Christian Advocate, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a high toned paper of large circulation: President Pershing deserves well of the Church for the valuable services he has rendered to the Church and the cause of education. An indefatigable worker, keen observer, with genial manners, and possessing rare executive ability, the Doctor stands peerless among the educators of the country. No department of the College escapes his vigilance and personal surveillance, and here is, perhaps, the secret of his success, coupled with his personal elements of character as a Christian gentleman. But we must not flatter our subject too much, and need only remark he is successful in every department he has been called to fill in the Church.

ON MOTION of David Reed, Esq., Mr. John A. McQuaide, was duly admitted to practice in the several Courts of Allegheny county. Mr. McQuaide has for three years studied law under the direction of Major A. M. Brown, which alone is a sufficient guarantee of his thorough qualification of his chosen profession. He passed a very creditable examination.

MR. J. H. FRENCH, of the Pacific Railroad, St. Louis, accompanied by an accomplished bride, was in the city on a wedding tour yesterday. He and his bride have our heartiest congratulations and best wishes for their future welfare.

JOHN FLOYD, Esq., President of the American Bank, left for New York last evening. He is accompanied by two of his nephews, and will visit Long Branch, Cape May and other places of summer resort before he returns.

MR. and MRS. D. O'NEILL, and Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Spencer are at Cape May. The turn-out of Dr. Spencer is said to be the nobbiest and most stylish on the beach this season.

PROF. S. J. WILSON, D. D., will sail from New York for Liverpool next Saturday. He will be absent a few months.

A Polite Robber.

A French paper gives some curious details respecting the Italian brigand Faccione. This celebrated Captain of banditti has his own peculiar method of providing for his wants or fancies at the expense of his neighbor. He does not ask for your money or your life by holding a knife to your throat. He seems to carry on his business by haunting the high road, and prefers to make the postmen run on his errands. If he wants a new toy or an embroidered cigar case, he sends for his secretary and dictates such a letter as the following, which is authentic:

"To Signor Saverio, Proprietor at Perugino:

"MY DEAR BROTHER IN ADAM: It is written that men should help each other. I am poor and you are rich; be so kind as to forward to me the following articles, of which I stand in need. Two musical snuff-boxes, with gold mechanism, six double-barrelled revolvers, with carved butt-ends; six silk neckerchiefs, to protect me against the chills of evening; a pair of Russia-leather boots; an English telescope, with morocco case, bearing my initials, P. F. That is all for myself; you see my tastes are simple. For the worthy persons who do me the honor of serving under me you will be so good as to add. A hundred yards of velvet; twelve dozen shirts, longest size; six Calabrese hats, (not forgetting the medals of the Madonna; six hampers of your best wine, at twelve bottles to the hamper; fifty bundles of cigars, and twenty bundles of tobacco.

"N. B.—I forget to mention a little pocket money (200 marenghi) for my own use; and that old cook Teresa, who dresses 'ravioli' so well for you, I will return her to you in a month. Prospectively and gratefully yours,

"POPOLO FACCIONE."

"P. S.—I know you are a good Christian, but this letter may find you in an unsuitable frame of mind, and you may hesitate to gratify me. I must then inform you that when I draw at sight on my neighbor it is essential to me that my signature should be honored. If my bill is dishonored I shall find myself under the cruel necessity of regarding you as a 'mauvais riche.'"

Signor Saverio proving intractable, notwithstanding this touching letter and its agreeable postscript, his brother in Adam surrounded his house with banditti, and insisted on receiving the value of all the articles he had demanded in money, only requiring a gold watch from Signor Saverio in consideration of the trouble to which he was put by his obstinacy. A price is set on the head of this considerate person by the government.

A Retail Herod.

"Making away with infant children" is beyond all doubt a regular trade in England, as it possibly is in some of our own cities. A woman was recently arrested in London, and put under examination in the Lambeth Police Court, charged with starving an infant to death. During the examination it gradually came out that this woman, who had a multitude of names, the chief of which were "Waters" and "Oliver," was in the practice of advertising for children "to adopt." She claimed to be "very fond of children," but only wanted a child that was very young, so that it would "never know any other mother" than herself. On receiving an answer to her advertisement she would appoint a meeting at a railway station, where she would receive the baby and $25, and "no questions asked" on either side as to where the baby came from and where it was to go. In this way she had got possession of forty infants within the last four years. She took them to a wretched place, where they were fed chiefly on "Paregoric Elixir" for a short time, and then she would take them away at night, telling her servant that she was "taking them home." The home she took them to is best explained, by stating that near the house of this fiendish wretch were some vacant grounds in a secluded place, and that in the months of March, April and May of this year, the bodies of seven infants were found under hedges and other out of the way places, places, bundled up in rags, paper parcels, &c. The mother of one of these murdered children was in Court, and produced a receipt given her by the prisoner for four pounds ($20), containing the promise to adopt the infant entirely as her own child, and always to "strictly study its present and future happiness." It is difficult to believe that such a horrible trade can exist, or that such monsters can live in a civilized country. But here are the facts, as developed in an English Police Court. Something of the same nature, but nothing like so atrocious, took place in our own city a few months ago.

Exciting Scene at a Circus-tent—An Enraged Lion Loose.

[From the Huntingdon, Tennessee, Courier, July 7, 1870.]

An exciting incident occurred yesterday at Col. Ames' circus. After the "grand review" had perambulated our streets, and returned to the tent, the keeper of the Mexican lions replaced them in the cage, and in coming out, instead of coming back foremost, he came out with his back to the animals. As he stepped out, the famous performing Mexican lion, Charlie, jumped upon his back, crushing him to the earth. The man cried out twice, "shoot him," "shoot him," when a bystander drew his revolver and fired three times, killing the lion upon the spot. The keeper was somewhat lacerated but not seriously injured. Col. Ames regrets the death of his favorite performing animal, and it is certainly a serious loss for him, but nothing compared with his keeper. A crowd of 1,000 or 1,500 people had gathered around when the incident occurred, and such a skedaddling we have seldom even seen.

THE New York Commercial Advertiser belongs to that class of papers which regular Democratic journals delight to honor by quoting as radical. It makes up for lack of ability to provide interesting originality for its readers by wildly attacking any and everybody connected with the administration. No one knew who Ackermann was before the Advertiser hallooed for him to resign. In fact this man Hastings reminds one of a young woman boxing who has never had any lessons. She whirls her little fists wildly about, trying to look very terrible, but if it were not for her weakness the only trouble would be which of the innumerable vulnerable points to strike first.

IT has been observed that in the south of Spain, when the south wind blows, linen spread out to bleach, instead of becoming white, attains a yellow tinge. This effect is attributed to finely divided sand from the Sahara, carried by the wind across the Mediterranean from Africa.

MR. BESSEMER's plan for obviating sea sickness, by means of an oscillating chamber, supported on bearings similar to those of a compass, will shortly be put to a practical test. A chamber of this description is now in course of construction, and will be fitted, when completed, to a steamer of about 300 tons.

AT Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, on the 4th of July, a party of excursionists, while on board a steamer on a pleasure cruise, displayed the American flag in a position superior to the British flag. The commander of the English gunboat Cherub, which was in the harbor, sent an officer on board and had the American flag hauled down.

THE Paris Soir is publishing "Lothair" from day to day in its feuilleton. The translation is by M. Ch. Bernard Derosne. In France it seems to be firmly believed that living political personages are represented by the characters in Mr. Disraeli's story. The Emperor and Signor Mazzini are, people are persuaded, to be recognized.

IN various parts of England the surface of the country has undergone great changes in the last hundred years. A new county is being reclaimed from the sea on the coast of Norfolk and Lincolnshire. In Lynn many of the houses are "settling," the bridges are weakened and the Corn Exchange "is sliding away from its front."

STOKE NEWINGTON GREEN in London is to be improved. There are many literary and historical associations connected with the place. The house in which the late Samuel Rogers, author of the "Pleasures of Memory," was born, is still in existence there. It is in contemplation to erect by subscription a statue of De Foe, who was educated and afterwards resided at Newington Green.

THE distinction lately conferred by the Emperor of Austria on Count Beust is to a certain extent without a precedent. There are several cases in Austrian history where eminent men who have deserved well of their country have been permitted to quarter the arms of Austria with their own, but no case is yet known of the arms of Hungary having been quartered with those of a private family.

THE recent appeal for further contributions towards the £15,000 still required to complete the restoration of Worcester Cathedral, is evoking a liberal response throughout the diocese. The Earl of Derby has given £5,000 without any condition as to the cathedral being used in future for the musical festivals; the Dean and Chapter have promised £2,000, and additional donations amounting to £3,335.

PRIVATE advices from Constantinople state that neither the residences of the United States Minister nor the United States Dragoman were destroyed in the late fire. The United States Consulate, however, was burned out. The Sultan, the Grand Vizier and the Minister of Police were in the midst of the fire, the Sultan being so assiduous that his clothes became ignited, and it was with much difficulty that he was rescued.

HERR STRAUSS, the well known Viennese music conductor, has been shockingly beaten by some Russian officers at Warsaw, who called him out of his bed at one o'clock in the morning, and insisted upon his giving them some music at a public garden where they were carousing. On his indignant refusal, he was struck in the face, knocked down, and beaten insensible. At latest accounts his life was thought to be endangered.

SMALLPOX though not much talked about, is causing much misery in Paris. For instance, a servant was suddenly attacked with that scourge at a fair, a doctor was summoned, a stretcher procured, and the patient taken to the Antoine Hospital. There was no room, and the unfortunate had to be placed under a tent at the Barriere du Trone, where he passed the night. The next day, after waiting two hours at the gate of the Hotel Dieu, he was admitted and died. The doctors tell fearful tales of crowded garrets in which the epidemic is still raging.

M'ME. DE GUYON, wife of General de Guyon, a dame of honor and the French Empress' most intimate personal friend, is dead. She had suffered for weeks with a cancer in the stomach, which tortured her without respite. Her shrieks of agony literally terrified the whole neighborhood in which she lived. She was unconscious of everything but bodily anguish for ten days before her death. Her Majesty frequently visited her, but latterly was denied admittance, as the sight of the poor woman, lately so brilliant an ornament of court, writhing with inexpressible pain on her death bed, was too painful for friendly eyes.

AN English paper gives a list of the London theatres and the numbers they are capable of containing. The list includes thirty-seven houses, whose united auditoriums can accommodate 71,230 persons. The largest is an East End Theater, called the Standard, which claims to hold an audience of 4,800; next comes the historical Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, with 4,000; next another popular East End house, the Britannia, with 3,923, and so on. The same journal points out that, taking into consideration the fact that St. Paul's Cathedral alone will hold 54,000 people, London is not overstocked with theatres in proportion to the churches.

A NEW ZEALAND letter says: The trouble with the natives is generally disappearing; a dispatch dated Wanganui, June 1st, says: A general meeting is to be held at Parihaka, on the 18th of September, by Te Whiti and Toha. Messengers have been sent to all parts of the Island. The object of the meeting is to re-establish general peace. Te Whiti says that Taranaki commenced the war, and Taranaki must end it. The Maori King is at present a guest of Mrs. Charlton, at Kawhia. It is Tawhiao's intention to throw open both Aotea and Kawhia, which shows that the natives intend to be more friendly with the Europeans than they have been for some time past in that part of the Island.

A CURIOUS sequestration case has just been tried at Coutances, France. In the middle of Normandy, in a pretty village, lived a family, patriarchal in its manners, consisting of a farmer and four sons, hard working people, highly esteemed in the country. One of the sons, however, for some reason not defined, became melancholy and no longer labored as usual. The father took his son, flung him into a dark room, a "Stygian cave forlorn," and chained him to the wall. This happened forty years ago. The neighbors were well aware of what had occurred, but no one said a word. Fifteen years later the father died and was buried; the whole parish attended the funeral and the curate expatiated on the qualities of the defunct. The sons inherited the farm, and continued to keep their brother in chains until he was an old man incapable of flight. When he was released the story came to the ears of the authorities, and his remaining brother was put upon his trial. This man had not the faintest idea that he had committed a crime. He enjoyed the respect of parents and fellow villagers, who were all as astonished as himself at the interference of the Procureur General, especially as "he had enough to eat and drink." This unconsciousness so astonished the jury that it acquitted the prisoner, as he acted without discernment.

SARDES the primeval city of Asia Minor, says the Pall Mall Gazette, is to be called into life again. Supposed to have been founded by the Phoenicians, and to have been alluded to by Homer, it is historically known as the capital and residence first of the Lydian kings, later of the Persian satraps. Being burned down successively by the Kimmerians, the Greeks, Antiochus the Great, and half destroyed by an earthquake under Tiberius, it was always rebuilt again, until at last, probably since the days of Tamerlane, it ceased to be anything but a vast field of ruins; the remains of a theatre, a stadium, and a triple wall with towers among them, were left as a memory of the royal city, which also boasted of having been one of the first Christian communities. It seems that a railway in the course of construction between Smyrna and Kassaba is about to touch this field of ruins, and a Prussian savant now on a casual tour in those parts has taken steps to secure a methodical exploration of the whole chemin faisant. Apart from the gain to antiquity in general which a scientific investigation of those ancient constructions must yield, there is no doubt that the Berlin Museum will obtain many a precious relic at a very reasonable rate. News has also been received from the same traveler of certain precious antique Greek statues, immured in a more or less damaged state in the medeval castle of Pergamus, which could very easily be acquired. Thus a collossal statue was discovered there the other day, in the most perfect preservation, but has, in default of a North-German man of war to take it home, to be covered up again.

Dreams to be Made Useful.

The London Lancet has published a paper by Dr. Henry Mandsley, who has long studied the reciprocal action between mind and body. He takes the ground that each disease is attended by certain psychological as well as physical effects, and as a consequence that the involuntary action of the brain during sleep may furnish new indications for diagnosis. In a dream, the background on which the phantoms move, is often determined by the state of the internal organs, the irritation of which awakens into some activity that part of the brain with which the irritated organ is in specific sympathy. Accordingly sympathetic ideas springing out of the feeling unite in dreams. When active consciousness is suspended, organic sympathies, which before were unperceived, declare themselves to the mind. This accounts for dreams in which the dreamer supposes himself attacked with a certain disease which is soon afterdeveloped. His dream in "coming true" is simply an evidence that the revelation was the result of that sympathetic action which at first only affected the brain during sleep. This new and ingenious theory will doubtless lead many physicians to make observations in the same direction, and thus establish its truth or falsity.

IT LOOKS RATHER SQUALLY in Europe just now. We trust affairs will be arranged, though, without bloodshed. Pier, Dannals & Co., received orders from Napoleon to send him a barrel of cream ale right away, from which we augur favorably; Bismarck will be invited over to drink a glass; matters will be socially discussed and concluded satisfactorily to all concerned.
